

Inclusivity in the Classroom

In an inclusive classroom, every student should feel a sense of belonging and social citizenship. It serves as a secure environment where adjustments are made to accommodate the needs of each student, ensuring that the environment suits the student, rather than requiring the student to conform to it.

Why take this training?

Given that 1 in 50 people in Canada is diagnosed on the Autism Spectrum, it is crucial for a broader audience to gain a comprehensive understanding of autism, particularly those who regularly interact with individuals on the spectrum, whether in a professional or social context.

This one-hour training is specifically crafted to aid educators in establishing an all-inclusive learning environment by enhancing their understanding of neurodivergence and how individuals on the autism spectrum may respond.

Let us teach you:

- Autism Explained
- Navigating Difficult Conversations
- Language
- Routines and Transitions
- Unexpected Behaviours
- Sensory Processing Sensitivity
- Safe Spaces and Special Responsibilities
- Buddy Systems and Peer Support
